The Residential School Experience

Picking Up the Pieces: The Making of the Witness Blanket

2019 CC 55 min or 84 min version Canadian Museum for Human Rights / Musée canadien pour les droits de la personne

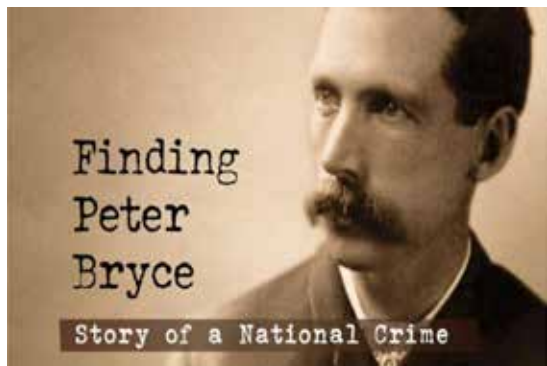

The Witness Blanket stands as a national monument to recognize the atrocities of the Indian residential school era, honour the children, and symbolize ongoing reconciliation. In an attempt to honour the more than 150,000 victims of the Canadian residential-school system, including his own father, artist Carey Newman embarks on a long journey to create the Witness Blanket. This large-scale art installation, inspired by the woven blanket's symbolization of protection in Indigenous cultures, features hundreds of artifacts gathered from former residential school sites, churches, government buildings and other affiliated structures.

Picking Up the Pieces: The Making of the Witness Blanket follows Newman and his team as they travel across Canada to meet survivors and collect these pieces of history. Through these survivors' testimonies, the documentary offers a crucial account of the atrocities committed in government-funded, church-run schools—and the lasting effects those acts have had on Indigenous communities.

BIO: Carey Newman or Hayalthkin'geme is a multi-disciplinary artist and master carver. Through his father, he is Kwakwak'awakw from the Kukwekum, Giiksam, and WaWalaby'ie clans of Fort Rupert, and Coast Salish from Cheam of the Sto:lo Nation along the upper Fraser Valley. Through his mother he is English, Irish, and Scottish.

Finding Peter Bryce: Story of a National Crime

2018 CC 24 min Peter Campbell

In 1907 Dr. Peter H. Bryce, the Chief Medical Health officer for the Department of Indian Affairs wrote a report documenting the inhuman and unsanitary conditions in Canada's residential schools. Bryson's report was discredited by the department's chief bureaucrat Duncan Campbell Scott and he was subsequently relieved of his duties at Indian Affairs.

Decades later, Andy Bryce, great-grandson of Peter Bryce opens a box of family memorabilia that inspires a journey into tracing Peter Bryce's story from his childhood in rural Ontario to his mysterious death on a cruise ship in the West Indies.

2016 CC 30 min LeMay Media

"Lemay's documentary can go a long way in helping students understand that the history of residential schools cannot be relegated to the past." - Resource Link

From the establishment of the early Residential Schools to the work of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, this film shines a light into this dark and troubling chapter of Canadian history. Written and directed by multiple award winning Métis filmmaker Matt LeMay, this poignant documentary gives a history of the schools - why and how they were established. Thousands of children were abused and many died while attending these institutions. The cultural genocide and abuse perpetrated by the Canadian government and Canada's churches towards seven generations of Indigenous people has inflicted deep sociological wounds that are still felt by survivors, families, and communities across Canada today.

Culture, Healing & Reconciliation

The Solstice Concerts 2016 – Ghostkeeper

In this performance, Calgary-based Ghostkeeper produces raw and electrifying music. A colourful patchwork of heartfelt, outsider blues, noisy pop and pow wow music, perhaps their music can be best understood through the distinctive Northern Alberta origins of Shane Ghostkeeper (vocals, guitar) and Sarah Houle (drums, vocals). As well as listening to their music, Shane and Sarah discuss their roots, the Métis experience and their contribution to the music world. Their album Sheer Buffalo 7" introduces the dystopian story of Sheer Blouse and Buffalo Knocks, spiritualist/explorer of realms and benevolent warrior, chronicling their battle against environmental destruction and the burden it places on their home lands in northern Alberta.

The Solstice Concerts 2016 – Kristi Lane Sinclair

Fierce and feisty, Haida/Cree singer-songwriter Kristi Lane Sinclair is emblematic of a new wave of Canadian aboriginal artists who are turning perceptions upside down. Raised in British Columbia's backwaters, and drawing more from a DIY/indie aesthetic than traditional or mainstream music, Sinclair's musical roots create a darkly intoxicating mix of grunge, folk and classical.

The Solstice Concerts 2016 – Joey Stylez With Dragonette

Joey Stylez's story is as unique as the music he creates. This Juno-nominated Hip Hop artist hit the ground running in the early 2000s with internet and mainstream hits that challenged society's views of Indigenous people. With online streaming in the tens of millions and collaborations with big names such as Dragonette, Bun B & Ty Dolla $ign, Stylez has showcased his talents to the delight of his fans. He has charted on Canadian top 40 radio and has served as an role model to Indigenous youth, as he overcame a troubled past and gained a respectable following.

Growing up in Saskatoon, he had gone down a path of darkness that few return from. With friends and family members on the same path dying, and the statistics for Indigenous youth dismal, the future did not look promising for him as a young man. His early music, which served as healing medicine, told a story of the current reality of being an Indigenous youth in Canada. He became an online force as he released song after song and video after video, that shared that story with mainstream North America and across the globe. He had the honour of opening Canada's Truth and Reconciliation process at a Winnipeg event along with Blue Rodeo and performed his critically acclaimed song Living Proof that illustrated the horrors of Canada's Residential School system.

FIRST CONTACT

Season 1 and Season 2

Explores the knowledge gap that exists between the lived experiences of Indigenous people and the perception of some Canadians

- Encourage dialogue
  - Address racism
  - Fresh perspective
- Increase awareness
- Broaden knowledge
  - Overcome fears
  - Affect change
- Promote reconciliation
  - Change attitudes

This docuseries takes six Canadians — all with strong (and mostly negative) opinions about Indigenous people — on a journey that promises to turn their lives upside down, challenging their perceptions and confronting their prejudices about a world they never imagined they would see. Narrated by host George Stroumboulopoulos, First Contact has proven to be a compelling exploration into Indigenous culture in Canada.

Season 1: Episodes include: The Journey Begins; A Group Divided; and A Road to Healing

Season 1's educators and storytellers include James Favel (Bear Clan Patrol), award-winning community organizer Michael Redhead Champagne, Kimmirut elders Jeannie and Elijah, Nunavut MP Hunter Tootoo, Muskrat Dam Chief Stan Beady, Michael Bear, cultural teacher at Ermineskin High School, residential school survivor, Rick Lightning, and Wade Maude of the Alpha House Indigenous Program.

Season 2: Episodes include: You Don't Know Me Until You've Met Me; Changing the Lens; Bridging the Divide

Season 2's educators and storytellers include Ian Campeau, formerly of a Tribe Called Red; Colleen Cardinal, a Sixties Scoop survivor; Ellen Gabriel and elder John Cree, front-line community members at the Oka Siege; Stephanie MacLaurin, community host in Fort William First Nation; Becky Sasakamoose Kuffner, race relations co-ordinator in Saskatoon; Eleanore Sunchild, legal counsel for the Boushie family; and Debbie Baptiste, Colten Boushie's mother.

The Seven Sacred Laws is a colourful and imaginative animated series that follows a young boy on an Indigenous rite of passage: a vision quest. On his spiritual journey, he meets seven sacred animals that teach him how we as people should live our lives on Mother Earth.

Written by Anishinaabe Elder, Dr. David Courchene, directed by Indigenous filmmaker, Erica Daniels of Peguis First Nation, and created by Manitoba's Peg City Pictures Inc., the vignettes tell the stories of Indigenous Peoples in their own voices.

The Seven Sacred Laws are important teachings in our cultures as the Original People of Turtle Island. They are ancestral values that inspire our conduct as human beings and bring us back to a relationship with the Earth.

Includes the following episodes:

Episode 1: The Creation Story - A young boy sets out on a vision quest in a sacred place known as Manito Api, which translates to "where the Creator sits".

Episode 2: Buffalo (Respect) - An apparition of a buffalo emerges from the sacred fire and teaches the boy the law of respect.

Episode 3: Eagle (Love) - A large eagle appears overhead to teach the law of love.

Episode 4: Bear (Courage) - A bear emerges from the woods and startles the boy, as he learns about the law of courage.

Episode 5: Sabe (Honesty) - A large and imposing creature similar to Bigfoot appears and teaches the boy about honesty.

Episode 6: Beaver (Wisdom) - A beaver scurries up to the boy to provide the law of wisdom.

Episode 7: Wolf (Humility) - The boy is approached cautiously by a wolf, who explains to him the value of humility.

Episode 8: Turtle (Truth) - A beautiful song draws the boy to a special encounter with a turtle, who helps him understand the importance of truth.

2020 CC 27 min First Nations Caring Society

From Child Rights Activist Dr. Cindy Blackstock, Eddy Robinson and Michif filmmaker and animator Amanda Strong

Spirit Bear and Children Make History tells the true story of a landmark human rights case for First Nations children at the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal and how Spirit Bear and his friends stood with First Nations children and helped make Jordan's Principle a reality. In January 2016, nine years after the case was filed, the Tribunal ruled that the government of Canada was racially discriminating against 165,000 First Nations children by underfunding child welfare and failing to provide equitable public services. This complex subject is told through the perspective of a small white teddy bear, Spirit Bear.

This resource is a powerful account of a justice issue involving First Nations children by explaining Jordan's Principle and demonstrating how all children can work for fairness and reconciliation.

Indigenous explorers go back to basics to experience life as their ancestors once lived

Merchants of the Wild, Season 1 mixes survival, nature and adventure, as six indigenous adventurers learn what it takes to complete a fur trade mission similar to the ones their ancestors would have endured in Northern Canada over 400 years ago.

Travelling in birch bark canoes, the brave group is taught by Elders and 'Knowledge Keepers', learning to make tools and use skills passed on orally through generations. These teachings are essential to their survival, as they take to the land with no modern technology on a voyage that will leave them forever changed.

The diverse group must survive for 25 days, using their collective knowledge and courage to find food, make shelter, endure freezing nights and battle an emotional journey to reconnect them with the land of their forefathers.

NOTE: This 13-part series is filmed over the course of a 25-day journey. Ideally it is watched in sequence, however, individual programs have a specific focus and can be watched individually if you are wishing to focus on specific themes.

Breaking Loneliness

2019 44 min Brandy Y Productions

Breaking Loneliness is a documentary about people finding ways to escape loneliness and social isolation. Loneliness is a social epidemic that is impacting all age groups around the world.

Although most of us are connected on social media, we have never felt more alone. Many of us find ourselves isolated from our communities and feeling lonely.

In this documentary, we follow four people; Indigenous Peer Support Worker, John Chief Moon, 2SLGBTQ+ Liaison and Peer Support Worker, Jace Laing-Schroeder, volunteer, Tom Greyson and ESL teacher, Julie Kraychy — who have worked to overcome their own loneliness and social isolation and are now helping others to battle theirs.

John Chief Moon has fought his share of battles during his life including substance abuse with alcohol. And now the 62-year-old from Alberta's Kainai Nation (Blood Tribe) spends his time helping others with their struggles. "What I'm helping people do is to connect to who we are," he said. "A lot of Indigenous people are ashamed of who they are. I tell them to check into your ancestry and lineage because you'd be surprised of where you do come from. Loneliness for an Indigenous person I think is different from other people because their culture is lost from them and they don't know much about it and their language is lost," Chief Moon says.

Nations at War is an exciting historical documentary series. Through cinematic historical footage, interviews with top historians, and state-of-the-art CGI, Nations at War presents a gripping account of the battles that shaped a continent.

At the end of the 15th century, two worlds which had stood apart for generations violently collided. The kingdoms of Europe and the Indigenous nations of the Americas. Despite being divided by language, culture and technology, it was the things they had in common which drove them to war. The quest for power, a desire for resources, and a will to survive.

Through the centuries of conflict that followed cultural and political alliances formed and crumbled, empires rose and fell, and two nations emerged to redraw the map of North America. These are the battles that shaped a continent. These are NATIONS AT WAR!

A combination of the oral storytelling of Indigenous legends and scientific study brings to life this beautifully filmed documentary. "The Spirit of the Bears" seeks to demonstrate the deep bond that has united Indigenous people and bears for millennia. Karine Genest, a passionate adventure guide who has been working with bears on a daily basis for years, takes us to meet them.

Fox Chaser: A Winter on the Trapline

2018 CC 44 min Hidden Story Productions

In the harsh winters of Northern Alberta, a young man struggles to protect his childhood dream of living on the trapline in a changing world. Robert Grandjambe Jr. has spent his life on the land, learning from his mother, father and grandfather, and growing into the bushman he always knew he was. With encroaching industrial development and increasing family obligations, this may be his last chance to live his passion in the freedom of the wild, harvesting furs and food.

In the remote village of Fort Chipewyan on Lake Athabasca, food security is scarce, and country foods harvested from the land have always been important. As more and more people leave the bush for the city, a trapper's life becomes increasingly isolated, and his family reluctantly accepts the lifestyle choices he has made, regretting his absence from raising his child. Determined to continue living in the natural world he loves, Robert finds freedom in a dying way of life, as he witnesses the mounting stresses put on the land by the toxic industries that feed and power our growing cities. Whether you are First Nation's or not, we all live off the land.

Biosphere reserves are regions of global ecological significance that make an ongoing commitment to the United Nations to strive for sustainability. They are places where people are inspired to find ways to live and work in harmony with nature. This series explains what is happening in Canada's biosphere reserves – the successes and the challenges of people determined to create a sustainable future for their communities. Come with us on a coast to coast journey spanning thousands of years to find out what makes them special, from geological, ecological, historical and cultural perspectives. We'll also investigate the reserves as living laboratories by joining academics, citizen scientists and indigenous knowledge-keepers in their research to create a more sustainable future for both Canadians and the environments in which we live.
