Oh that little espresso in the morning... whether at the corner café, at home or with colleagues at the office, who doesn't follow the daily ritual?... On a global scale, coffee is the most consumed drink after water. In value it is the world's biggest agricultural product... And things are not likely to change, because consumption of coffee is on the rise, driven by new ways of consuming it. Over the last ten years the "regional" trend has become evident with the boom in coffee shops where baristas serve coffee as if it were wine. Behind their glistening neo-retro percolators they talk of body, power, fruit, bitterness... It looks as if the "quick brew" is becoming "grand cru".

Alexandre Dumas is one of the most prolific authors of the 19th century. With a great sense of romance and action, he was at the centre of a writing workshop producing true sagas at an almost frenetic rhythm. Reinventing French history, he was a real show-runner, instilling energy in his characters and situations, often inspired by his own life. Between fiction and reality, this documentary recounts the life of a Renaissance Epicurean lost in the 19th century, an author who made generations of readers dream of his Musketeers who are now part of the common heritage of humanity.

At the end of 2013, the price of a barrel of oil started to fall and within two years it had lost 70% of its value. This downturn in oil could have been just one more event in the story of oil prices, but it also revealed an incredible scenario. By becoming the planet's largest producer of the black gold because of their shale oil, the United States overturned the world order in oil that had prevailed since the Second World War. In a major strategic change, the Americans were no longer dependent on oil from their Saudi allies, who had come under suspicion following the September 11 attacks of 2001. To counter this power grab, Saudi Arabia engaged in a game of poker by producing surplus oil in order to drive the price of a barrel as low as possible and bring off a triple coup: ruin the American shale oil industry and weaken its worst enemies, Russia and Iran...

Cat: Sexuality, Men, Sexual Diversity, Women

Neither a girl nor a boy, or a little of both...The intersexes from an invisible community that does not have any real legal, social or even medical status. Is it a pathology, an anomaly, or a difference among many? In civil status in any case, there are only two boxes to check : masculine or feminine. So, should we assign a sex to these babies by operating them from birth? This is still the case in France, where every year, out of 2000 children, irreversible surgeries are performed. Luck or curse?

• Version: « Tuer l'indien, dans la cœur de l'enfant »

[A196-028 A] 1 x 52 minutes | 2020 | $DVD (U): 235 | $DVD (S):

Cat: Indigenous Peoples

Killing the Indian goes to the root of a deep-seated evil that is eating away at Canadian democracy. Misery, alcohol, drugs, violence, feminicides... the First Nations, have been facing a crisis for decades. Considered as second-class citizens, they bear the brunt of these consequences... This film follows the cultural, political, and legal battle of these new avengers of the Indigenous cause. It's a road-movie along the frozen routes of Ontario, Saskatchewan, and the Northwest Territories. It's a journey of initiation that takes us from the boreal forests of Canada's north to the secret archives of the Vatican.

Deep Learning is a radical and recent revolution in engineering. It allows computer systems to better analyse and interpret large volumes of data. By using deep neural networks, computers can analyse, understand and respond to complex situations as quickly as men. It is a decisive step in the way machines learn to represent the world as humans do. Deep Learning brings back to the forefront the search for artificial intelligence.

Cat: Climate Change, New Technologies

Scientists are testing new geo-engineering technologies - the modification of the earth's climate on a large scale - that, according to them, will be able to limit the effects of global warming, or even cool the planet. The capturing of CO2 in the atmosphere through artificial tree forests or reflecting sunlight by creating a shield in the mesosphere are some of the new technologies being tested. What are these processes? How do they work? Is it really already possible? Tested in the laboratory, will they work on a large scale? What are the risks for the planet?

Man 2.0 is the multi-ethnic and multicultural result of today's science. For 4.5 billion years mutation, gene flow and natural selection have driven the evolutionary process and shaped life on Earth. Today cultural evolution is taking over, changing how we live, how we think and how we die. This six part documentary series investigates the growing role of science in shaping human life. We meet the most prominent scientists, anthropologists and futurologists from around the world to explore the state of the art of the human species.

The sea level in Venice has increased drastically in the last century or so, threatening the very existence of the city. Global warming and the harmful effects of tourism have amplified the phenomenon of acqua alta (sudden rise in sea level), rendering the traditional responses of inhabitants obsolete. It is urgent to act today. Projects conceived in laboratories across the globe are joining forces to save the city. The film will take us on this extraordinary journey, the technological and scientific struggle for the survival of Venice, a survival that has been in doubt from its very construction.

Driving is already outdated ! Far more than a simple technological innovation, the autonomous car is a true Trojan horse. Just as Uber turned the world of taxis upside down, it should also disrupt the world of cars, transports and urban space. With autonomous cars, a new hierarchy of transport players is coming and is going to change our world.
