The Orphan and the Polar Bear

Grades 2-6 2013 9 mins Taqqut Productions

Based on the best selling book by Sakiasi Qaunaq.

WINNER: Yorkton Film Festival; Montreal First Peoples' Festival; SENE Film Festival

According to Inuit oral history, long ago animals had the power of speech, could shift their appearances, and could even assume human form. In The Orphan and the Polar Bear, a neglected orphan is adopted by a polar bear elder. Under the bear's guidance, the little orphan learns the skills he will need to survive and provide for himself.

The Amautalik

Grades 2-6 2014 7 min Taqqut Productions

Best Children's and Youth Production, Yorkton Film Festival

The animated short film The Amautalik is adapted from an Inuit folktale that has been shared by the Caribou Inuit from the Canadian Arctic for countless generations. A neglected orphan and a kind little girl encounter one of the most dangerous land spirits from Inuit folktales—the Amautalik. This huge creature wanders the tundra, looking for children or lone travellers. When the Amautalik finds the two children far away from the safety of their camp, she is certain of her prize. But she didn't count on the little orphan's quick-thinking response.

Spirit Bear and Children Make History

All Ages 2020 27 min First Nations Caring Society

Spirit Bear and Children Make History tells the true story of a landmark human rights case for First Nations children at the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal and how Spirit Bear and his friends stood with First Nations children and helped make Jordan's Principle a reality. In January 2016, nine years after the case was filed, the Tribunal ruled that the government of Canada was racially discriminating against 165,000 First Nations children by underfunding child welfare and failing to provide equitable public services. This complex subject is told through the perspective of a small white teddy bear, Spirit Bear.

This resource is a powerful account of a justice issue involving First Nations children by explaining Jordan's Principle and demonstrating how all children can work for fairness and reconciliation.

Monkey Beach

Grades 10+ 2020 104:37 min Animiki See Distribution Inc.

In bringing Eden Robinson's beloved novel to the screen, Loretta Sarah Todd offers us a modern epic. Monkey Beach is a testament to Indigenous women's ability to not just endure trials but emerge from them empowered. Waking up in her East Vancouver apartment, Lisa (Grace Dove) is contacted by her cousin's ghost (Sera-Lys McArthur). Returning to her Haisla kin in Kitimaat Village, BC, she works to save her brother, Jimmy, (Joel Oulette) who mysteriously vanishes at sea, while she contends with mystical creatures lurking in the nearby woods. This captivating allegory touches upon the challenge of coexisting with the ghosts that haunt us and spirits who might enlighten us.

Tzouhalem

Grades 9-12 2021 52 & 92 min verisons Less Bland Productions

Tzouhalem, Chief of the Cowichan First Nation during the mid-1800's, is arguably one of the most fascinating and polarizing figures in Canadian history. His story is a matter of historic record yet is the subject of legend. There is a mountain, road, and other landmarks on Cowichan territory named after him.

This documentary, through interviews and creative re-enactments, examines the near-mythic figure of Cowichan Chief Tzouhalem, the account of his life from both historians and First Nations Elders, the folkloric tales concerning him, his impact on the modern relationship between the Crown and First Nations, and how his legend remains alive to this day, examining critically how his story has been told and passed down to us.

Indigenous Tourism and Art in Southeastern Ontario: From Seeing Canada (Season 4)

Grades 9-12 2023 26:46 min Brandy Y Productions

Canadian Journalist Brandy Yanchyk heads to southeastern Ontario. She meets the rare and endangered Ojibwe Spirit Horses at the Mādahòki Farm in Nepean, Ontario. This is the only known breed of horse indigenous to Canada. The farm's Legacy Trail is a self-guided medicine walk and their marketplace supports local Indigenous small businesses and artists. Brandy learns to make a corn husk doll, a Haudenosaunee tradition that dates back thousands of years. Brittle dried cornhusks become soft if soaked in water and produce finished dolls sturdy enough for children's toys.

Near Cornwall, Ontario, at the international Akwesasane Mohawk Nation ('land where the partridge drums'), you can get guided tours of several museums, learn lacrosse stick making and basket making, and eat in local restaurants. Brandy learns how to make traditional corn bread.

At the Agnes Etherington Art Centre in Kingston, Ontario, Brandy meets Guatemalan-born painter and performance artist Francisco Corbett.

WINNER: Audience Favourite Award at the Salt Spring Film Festival

A Cedar Is Life explores how one critical species, the cedar tree, is central to the cultural life of West Coast First Nations. The film follows the journey of Archeological Consultant and Cultural Worker Harold C. Joe as he discovers more about the cedar. The documentary weaves together interviews with elders, mask carvers, medicinal harvesters, canoe makers, totem carvers, cedar bark weavers, those working with traditional food and cooking, and other hands-on practitioners all along the West Coast (from Cowichan to Haida Gwaii) who speak to their craft, and how all parts of the tree were – and still are – important to make use of.

Dust & Bones

Grades 9-12 2018 52 & 70 min versions Less Bland Productions

Framed around the pending transfer from the Royal BC Museum back to their indigenous community, Dust & Bones takes us through the discovery, preservation and re-dedication of human remains and artifacts, and with them, a reclamation of First Nations culture and history.

The main thread of Dust & Bones is the day-to-day (and overnight) work of Harold Joe, a revered cultural worker, archaeological monitor and filmmaker who has been challenging appropriation by museums, universities and private collectors for over 40 years. Transferring the remains and artifacts held at museums such as RBCM to traditional territories for proper burials is one of many larger-scale 'take back the bones' initiatives of First Nations communities around the world.

Returning Home

Grades 9-12 2021 71:50 min Canadian Geographic Enterprises

Directed by Secwépemc filmmaker Sean Stiller, 'Returning Home' follows Orange Shirt Day founder Phyllis Jack-Webstad on a cathartic cross-Canada educational tour as her own family struggles to heal from multigenerational trauma. Amid a global pandemic and the lowest salmon run in Canadian history, 'Returning Home' explores how a multi-year federal fishing moratorium is tearing at the very fabric of Secwépemc communities and traditions.

Throughout the 19th and 20th centuries Secwépemc communities were dispossessed of their land and their children were consumed by the residential school system. By observing the trauma experienced by Phyllis and her family, 'Returning Home' holds a mirror to the trauma experienced by the natural world, too, as the salmon are also facing dispossession through gradual destruction of their waterways. For the Secwépemc, healing humans and protecting the natural world are interwoven.

The Nature of Healing is the spoken truth of seven Survivors of Mohawk Institute, Canada's first and longest running Indian residential school. From victim to survivor, to activist, this is a story of resistance, resilience and a healing path.

What began as a simple conversation about the Mohawk Village Memorial Park the Survivors have been building for 10 years, became a full feature documentary.

The 139 residential schools, operated in partnership with the Canadian Government and Churches were Canada's sanctioned system of dehumanization; neglect, brutality and child abuse in all its forms in order to obliterate the Red Nation footprint.

The Elders, Grandfathers and Grandmothers who speak out now, do so not only for themselves, but for the thousands of children across Turtle Island who never could.

We Are the Eeyouch of Eeyou Istchee

Grades 9-12 2021 10 min Grand Council of the Crees

In the early 1970's, the massive James Bay Hydroelectric Project came to this territory, a time when there was no recognition of aboriginal rights in Canada. The project would have a huge impact on their way of life. Faced with the threat, Cree leaders worked with the law to retain their identity and signed the James Bay Northern Quebec Agreement (Cree Quebec Governance Agreement) in 2012, a modern-day treaty. We Are the Eeyouch of Eeyou Istchee is an overview of the form of governance over this time period up to today.

Resource Guide included

“Treaty Road” follows Saxon de Cocq and Erin Goodpipe as they examine the role that Saxon’s ancestor played in the numbered treaty negotiations. They travel the old roads to uncover the truth about the signing of these controversial documents. The series explores the history & present day state of the Numbered Treaties in Canada between the Crown and Indigenous Peoples, from a very personal & unique point of view.

Episode 1 – #AS0748 - Surrender the Land

As Erin and Saxon begin their journey of discovery on Treaty 1 territory in Manitoba, they learn how the concept of land surrender was obscured by the Crown’s manipulation. James McKay plays an important role, but his intentions remain a mystery.

Episode 2 – #AS0749 - Justice

Erin and Saxon visit Treaty 2 territory and find out how people were forcibly displaced from their homes in the creation of a national park. Attempts to seek justice reveal that Canadian law offers no protection to Indigenous people.

Episode 3 – #AS0750 - Water

In Treaty 3 territory, Erin and Saxon learn about the ongoing struggle to protect the water from contamination. They visit a blockade in Grassy Narrows, ON, where a woman poisoned by mercury explains environmental racism.

Episode 4 – #AS0751 - Education

Erin becomes a mother and visits her homelands on Treaty 4 territory in Saskatchewan. She and Saxon walk through the remains of a residential school and learn about the push to honour the memory of children whose lives were lost at residential schools.

Episode 5 – #AS0752 - Food Sovereignty

Erin and Saxon find out how Treaty 5 limited people’s ability to feed their communities. The duo learns how innovative gardeners in Norway House, Man., provide greens year-round, and land-based learning brings them out onto the ice.

Episode 6 – #AS0753 - Resistance

As the buffalo near extinction, the Plains Indigenous People struggle to survive, but they add a medicine chest clause to Treaty 6 to try to protect their health. The Indian Act is pushed through and undermines any rights enshrined in the treaties.

Mi'kmaq Elder Joe Michael, invited by Acadia University to lecture on Mi'kmaq (L'nuk) Traditional healing, chose instead to stage a reenactment. Participating students were moved and galvanized! This led to their involvement in the making of a ground-breaking film exploring mutual healing from 400 years of colonialism. Woven throughout the reenactments are interviews with participants: Mi'kmaq Elders, Indigenous and Settler university students, and their professor. By expressing their true feelings they end up finding common ground.

FIRST CONTACT

Explores the knowledge gap that exists between the lived experiences of Indigenous people and the perception of some Canadians

- Encourage dialogue
 - Address racism
 - Fresh perspective
- Increase awareness
- Broaden knowledge
 - Overcome fears
 - Affect change
- Promote reconciliation
 - Change attitudes

This docuseries takes six Canadians — all with strong (and mostly negative) opinions about Indigenous people — on a journey that promises to turn their lives upside down, challenging their perceptions and confronting their prejudices about a world they never imagined they would see. Narrated by host George Stroumboulopoulos, First Contact has proven to be a compelling exploration into Indigenous culture in Canada.

Premier contact est une série documentaire (3 x 45 min) qui permettra à six Québécois de vivre une immersion totale en milieu autochtone pendant 18 jours. Les participants, qui n'ont aucune idée de la réalité autochtone, seront invités à sortir de leur vie quotidienne pour découvrir les communautés autochtones du Québec. Cette aventure unique les emmènera, entre autres, chez les Anishinaabe de l'Abitibi et de la Haute-Gatineau, à la rencontre de la population Autochtone urbaine de la région de Montréal, chez les Attikamek et finalement sur le territoire des Hurons-Wendats. Le voyage mettra aussi à l'épreuve leurs opinions et remettra en question leurs préjugés au sujet d'un peuple qu'ils ne connaissent que très peu et ce, malgré sa proximité.

Résumé épisode 1

Nos six participants prennent la route. Ils débutent leur parcours à Pikogan où ils sont accueillis par Samian. Ils y découvrent la réalité des Anishinaabe au Québec et de leur relation avec les Allochtones. Ils s'arrêtent aussi sur l'ancien site du pensionnat St. Marc de Figueray pour tenter de comprendre comment et pourquoi les impacts des pensionnats sont toujours d'actualité. Leur parcours les amènera enfin au cœur de Lac Simon et de Kitsisakik où ils pourront voir les impacts de la modernité sur la vie traditionnelle.

Résumé épisode 2

Dans ce deuxième épisode, le groupe se rend à Kitigan-Zibi où les participants rencontrent le Grand Chef John Boudrias qui leur parle des Nations Algonquines et de leur évolution sur ce territoire.

Les participants discutent avec Laurie Odjick, la mère d'une jeune Autochtone disparue il y a plusieurs années. Leur chemin se poursuit ensuite vers Montréal, où le groupe fait la connaissance du "Wolf Pack Street Team" un groupe qui patrouille les rues de Montréal dans le but d'offrir un peu de soutien aux Autochtones vivant dans les rues.

Enfin, le groupe est invité chez l'aînée Dominique Rankin pour comprendre un peu la spiritualité Autochtone et où, ensemble, ils participeront à une tente de sudation.

Résumé épisode 3

Pour l'étape finale du parcours, les participants se rendent à Wemotaci pour participer à un Pow-wow et comprendre cette célébration. Ils auront la chance de rencontrer Jessica Vollant, une traditionaliste, qui continue de promouvoir sa culture non seulement au sein de sa famille mais aussi dans la communauté. Par la suite, le Grand Chef Ghislain Picard, les accueillera à bras ouverts pour leur expliquer l'importance de cohabitation entre nations.

La série se termine par un cercle de partage, où chaque membre du groupe témoigne de son expérience et explique comment celle-ci a changé ses perceptions.

Indigenous explorers go back to basics to experience life as their ancestors once lived

Grades 9-12 2018 13 x 22 min Buck Productions

Merchants of the Wild is an ongoing series filmed in various locations across Canada. It mixes survival, nature and adventure, as six indigenous adventurers learn what it takes to complete a fur trade mission similar to the ones their ancestors would have endured in Canada over 400 years ago.

Travelling in birch bark canoes, the brave group is taught by Elders and 'Knowledge Keepers', learning to make tools and use skills passed on orally through generations. These teachings are essential to their survival, as they take to the land with no modern technology on a voyage that will leave them forever changed.

The diverse group must survive for 25 days, using their collective knowledge and courage to find food, make shelter, endure freezing nights and battle an emotional journey to reconnect them with the land of their forefathers.

NOTE: Each of these 13-part series is filmed over the course of a 25-day journey. Ideally it is watched in sequence, however, individual programs have a specific focus and can be watched individually if you are wishing to focus on specific themes.

Breaking Loneliness

Grades 9-12 2019 44 min Brandy Y Productions

Breaking Loneliness is a documentary about people finding ways to escape loneliness and social isolation. Loneliness is a social epidemic that is impacting all age groups around the world. Although most of us are connected on social media, we have never felt more alone. Many of us find ourselves isolated from our communities and feeling lonely.

In this documentary, we follow four people; Indigenous Peer Support Worker, John Chief Moon, 2SLGBTQ+ Liaison and Peer Support Worker, Jace Laing-Schroeder, volunteer, Tom Greyson and ESL teacher, Julie Kraychy — who have worked to overcome their own loneliness and social isolation and are now helping others to battle theirs.

John Chief Moon has fought his share of battles during his life including substance abuse with alcohol. And now the 62-year-old from Alberta's Kainai Nation (Blood Tribe) spends his time helping others with their struggles. "What I'm helping people do is to connect to who we are," he said. "A lot of Indigenous people are ashamed of who they are. I tell them to check into your ancestry and lineage because you'd be surprised of where you do come from. Loneliness for an Indigenous person I think is different from other people because their culture is lost from them and they don't know much about it and their language is lost," Chief Moon says.

Grand Council of the Crees (Eeyou Istchee)

The Eeyouch of Istchee traces the history of the James Bay Cree of Northern Quebec from 1971 when Robert Bourassa announced his “Project of the Century” – the damming or diverting of all major rivers in Eeyou territory, to the present in four powerful episodes. The series speaks to the social, political, economic, and spiritual life of the Eeyouch as they defended their rights and built a modern Eeyou nation. This series is a powerful educational resource for the younger generation, showing where the Eeyouch have come from, what they have experienced, fought for and accomplished, what lessons they have learned, and what advice they have for the future.

The Water Walker

Grades 7-12 2019 13:54 min Seeing Red Media

The Water Walker is a short documentary, tracing the roots, passion and perseverance of teenaged climate activist Autumn Peltier.

At 15 years old, Autumn Peltier, the Anishinabek Nation chief water commissioner, had already spent half of her life fighting for water. Motivated by stories of children growing up without access to drinkable tap water and elders forced to walk every day to claim water rations, Autumn embarked on a mission to bring clean drinking water to Indigenous communities across Canada. Directed by James Burns, the film follows Autumn's journey from Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory, on Manitoulin Island, to the United Nations General Assembly in New York City as she fights for the rights of Indigenous communities across Canada.

Starring Autumn Peltier, narrated by Graham Greene.

Echoes of the Ice

2024 26:33 min Indigenous Geographic

Echoes of the Ice, presented in the immersive and candid style of Anthony Bourdain, follows Crystal Martin, an Inuk woman from Sanirajak, Nunavut, as she returns to Iqaluit to reconnect with her cultural roots through traditional Inuit hunting practices. Guided by her cousin Pakak, Crystal embarks on a treacherous journey to the floe edge, where the uncertainty of the thinning ice and shifting animal patterns due to climate change casts doubt on their hunt.

In true Bourdain fashion, the film dives deep into Iqaluit's night-life and modern businesses, exploring how the changing climate impacts everything from traditional practices to contemporary livelihoods. From the challenges faced by local entrepreneurs at NuBrew, a brewery affected by environmental shifts, to the adaptation of the community's social scene, Echoes of the Ice captures the raw and honest reality of life in the Arctic, where culture, commerce, and climate collide.

This series explains what is happening in Canada's biosphere reserves – the successes and the challenges of people determined to create a sustainable future for their communities. Come with us on a coast to coast journey spanning thousands of years to find out what makes them special, from geological, ecological, historical and cultural perspectives. We'll also investigate the reserves as living laboratories by joining academics, citizen scientists and indigenous knowledge-keepers in their research to create a more sustainable future for both Canadians and the environments in which we live.

We are thrilled to announce our distribution partnership with Indspire.

Our partnership is bringing the 2024 Indspire Awards (Spirit Journeys) to your classroom. The Indspire Awards is an annual celebration honouring the remarkable achievements and contributions of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples in Canada. The awards recognize Indigenous professionals and youth who demonstrate outstanding career achievement, promote self-esteem and pride for Indigenous communities, and provide inspirational role models for future generations. Interspersed with the interviews is an animated story from Matt LeMay and Crystal Martin from Indigenous Geographic. The story explores the importance of connection and knowledge to the ancestor spirit.
